The Brass Astrolabe

"Time is a gear wheel with teeth of brass."

Every tooth of the celestial escapement clicked with rhythmic precision.

In this section of The Clockwork Architect (1937), Arthur Pendelton develops the central themes that define the work's enduring place in literature & essays and world literature. Each argument and narrative turn builds upon the premises established in the opening pages, inviting careful reflection from the attentive reader.

Originally published by eBaro Antiquarian Imprint and preserved in the public-domain and open-access archival record (Antiquarian Press, ID: FOLIO-SPEC-1937), this unabridged digital edition retains the structure, cadence, and intellectual clarity of the authoritative text.

CHAPTER 2

Gears of Midnight

*The Clockwork Architect * Arthur Pendelton (1937)*

Gears of Midnight continues Arthur Pendelton's inquiry in The Clockwork Architect. Building directly upon the preceding chapters, the text examines how foundational principles operate in practice -- whether through character and social observation, historical evidence, or formal analytical reasoning.

Set in Prague in the 17th century, a master horologist constructs a planetary automaton that begins ticking backwards toward creation.

Throughout Chapter 2 (Gears of Midnight), the reader encounters the unmistakable voice and structural rigor that earned The Clockwork Architect its stature in the Speculative Sci-Fi & Metaphysical Fiction canon. Where superficial treatments settle for isolated maxims, Arthur Pendelton traces the deeper causal connections linking premise, observation, and conclusion.

As this section draws toward its close, the groundwork is laid for the subsequent movements of the volume. Readers studying this edition in the Folio Digital Library may bookmark this chapter, adjust typographic contrast and font sizing, or download the complete archival PDF, EPUB, HTML, or Plain Text edition for offline study.
